*1960's Greek
Nautical Journey*

"There's Karma in the Current"

"When it is calm"

I want envelop this semester in the feeling of taking a journey through the Greek ocean. I want to engage in themes regarding mystery, adventure, and beauty.

The ocean and its ability to create visual storytelling has enticed me. Not every journey is the same, therefore narrowing it down to 1960s Greek nautical journey is the direction for me.

My creative inspiration will be reflected through

1. The music and sounds of the era
2. Art depicting the theme and mystery of the ocean
3. Iconography/photography

Music such as "Vanisher, Horizon Scrapper" create an organic and visual soundscape

Paintings such as "Wanderer above the Sea Fog" (1818) and "The Raft of Medusa" (1818) create a feeling of wonder and dread in the ocean

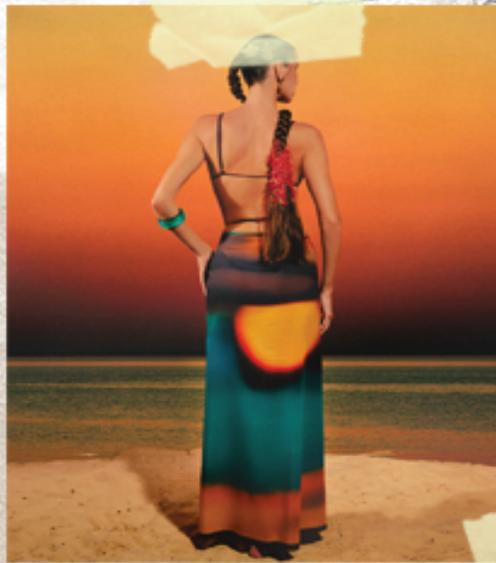

Lighthouse being a key symbol of the journey (depiction of the Toulitis Lighthouse Greece)

Patterns such as waves and gradients define the feeling of the sea

- The Good
- The Beautiful
- The Landmarks
- The Ugly
- The End

Create heavy emphasis on the landmarks seen ie: wrecked boat or a unique island

- Prints that Inspire and guide the concept

In line with Womens prints forecast for 2027. Trends are emerging that focus on my theme. Shells and the natural prints that are appear on them are going to be trending. This can be seen in the picture to the right.

Another print trend that is emerging the arrival of fantasy resort styles.. This combines the playfulness and creativity of fantasy with more formal print wear.

European Influence is going to be key

North Star

Symbols such as the north star, the mati (evil eye) and the national Greek emblem are common symbols of greek sailing during the 1960s

*The captain stands alone, arms to the sky
The symphony of loneliness, unheard upon its own
He cracks a bottle, it's the only friend he knows
Years of no expression left him bitter, comatose
The rain is torrential, he gives a toothless grin
About to meet the devil, projections from within Lightning strikes the ocean, illuminating fears
The depth reflects his mind, his time is getting near Counting every moment, wish away the minutes
Waves as big as mountains, strung out to his limits
The blankness of oblivion, reality sinks in Consumed by the roar of fear, a thousand voices grin
Heart pounding, he finishes the bottle
Climbs up to the sail, clutching, wishing for tomorrow*
